The University Sunburst

In 1887, the Johns Hopkins University celebrated its 25th anniversary. To mark the occasion, the Board of Trustees ordered the creation of a commemorative emblem. The emblem was designed by the architect John Russell Pope and was made of gold. It features a central eagle with spread wings, surrounded by a circular arrangement of sharp, radiating spikes. The entire piece is mounted on a dark, ornate base.

"It took something on this for a scholar's motto. Success from the top on the top of the banner's pole. There had to be something of a banner's leadership, a constant light throughout every part of the banner."
